Foreword

Listen Ye! And rejoice with us, for this is our twenty-fifth birthday.

Twenty-five years ago a slim volume appeared which summarized the achievements of a "little world," just established on the Fenway. This "little world" and its chronicler "just growed," like Topsy—suffering all the troubles and growing-pains of childhood, gradually entering adolescence, and finally reaching the imposing maturity of the quarter-century mark.

As we reach this milestone, it is only fitting that we turn back to scan the years gone by, for only through contrast of the new and old can progress be fully realized and appreciated.

We have gathered here, therefore, some of the old, and much of the new, in order to point with pride at the growth and changes in our "little world."

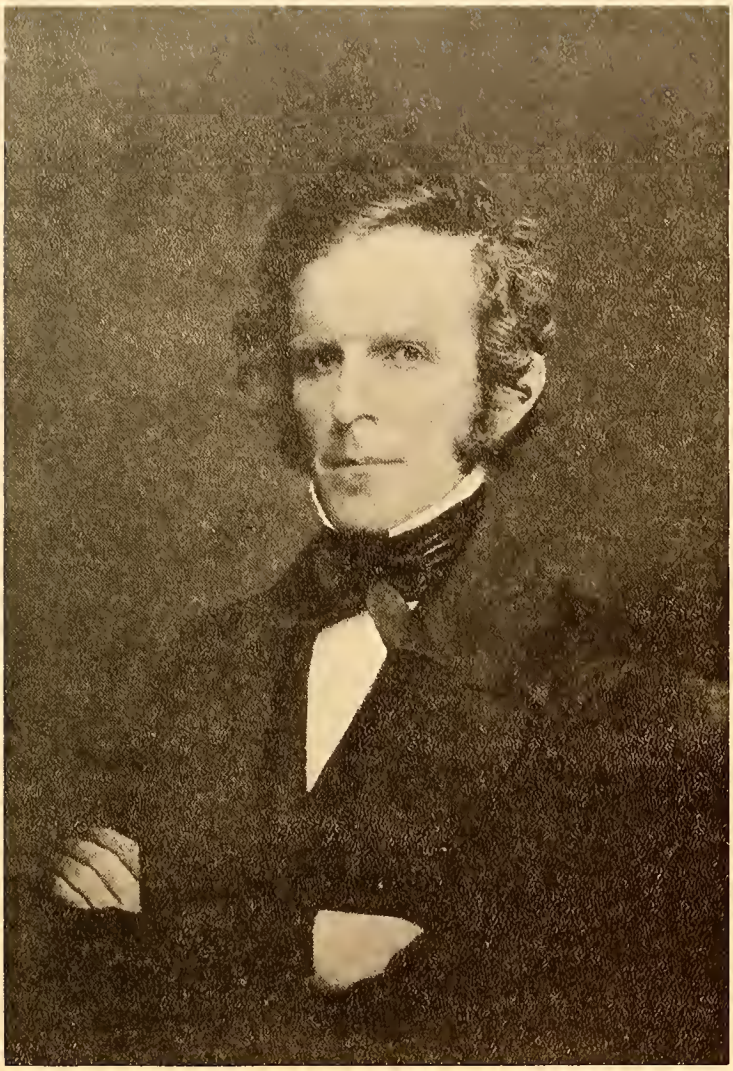
Dedicates this Book



John Simmons

"It is my will to found and endow an institution to be called the Simmons Female College for the purpose of teaching medicine, music, drawing, designing, telegraphy and other branches of art, science and industry best calculated to enable the scholars to acquire an independent livelihood."

These words are the genesis of Simmons College. It has been said that an idea is as much of an endowment as money. John Simmons gave both, and the College of today with its twenty-nine years of service represents the present accomplishment of those endowments. John Simmons, born in the small rural town of Little Compton, Rhode Island, with the meagre education that the common schools of such a community could furnish, but with the character and habits that the family training gave in those days, came to Boston in 1812 at the age of sixteen to begin what was to be a busy, successful career as a business man. At first an employee in his brother's store, then the manager of his own small store which traded in men's clothing, and finally a leading manufacturer of ready-made clothes for men with a nation-wide business, together with an unusual shrewdness in real estate investments, he accumulated what was for those days a large fortune, and before he was sixty he had retired from active business. He had employed many girls in his factory and he had observed that beyond their ill-paid trade there were no opportunities for those with talent to achieve a self-supporting career in which their talents might be employed. Suitable opportunities for boys had been provided and this College was to be the supplemental institution for girls. Conditions and educational resources have been much changed in these sixty years, especially since our work began. But this College opened a pathway, and the many young women who entered its doors have reason to rise up and call its Founder blessed.

REMARKS: An analysis made recently of positions held by graduates of the School of Household Economics showed a surprising variety. A little more than an eighth are teaching in public schools and a little less than an eighth are teaching in colleges, normal schools, private schools, hospitals, or missionary schools or are supervising. About an eighth are engaged in food management as hospital dietitians, lunchroom, tearoom or club managers. This group includes a number of people who are in business for themselves. About a sixteenth are dealing with the adult public in the employ of business firms or welfare organizations such as gas and electric companies, commercial food companies, health organizations or clothing shops. Another sixteenth are employed outside the home economics field as laboratory assistants, executives, etc. This group includes six people who have earned their M.D. degrees. About half the group are married. Of these very few are working outside the home.

SOCIETIES: Phi Beta Kappa; University of Cincinnati Alumni Association; American Library Association; Massachusetts Library Club; Association of American Library Schools; New York State Library School Association; College Club, Boston.

REMARKS: Libraries are interpenetrating the whole life of their communities, and as they spread their network more widely to take in the farthest rural district and the crowded city ward, more and better librarians are needed. Their functions, too, are becoming more highly specialized, so special education in librarianship grows more important, hence the value of library schools of high quality.

Simmons is now one of the largest, and hopes to be always in the forefront in quality as well.

In September 1922, it became a part of the Graduate Division of Simmons College. Its present headquarters are at 19 Allston Street, Beacon Hill, within easy reach of the stores.

The school's original object was to provide adequate training for salespeople in department stores. Now its chief work is the training of college graduates for executive and personnel positions in stores and in other organizations, and for positions as teachers and supervisors of Retail Selling courses in public schools and colleges. There is an increasing variety of opportunities offered every year in this field. The graduates are in many cities of the United States and in eight foreign countries. The enrollment is limited to sixty students.

SOCIETIES: Gamma Alpha; Sigma Xi; Fellow, American Association for the Advancement of Science; American Bacteriologists; Executive Committee, Massachusetts Board of Health Association; Boston Bacteriological Society; Executive Committee, Director and Chairman, Health Service Committee, Boston Chapter American Red Cross; Executive Committee, Massachusetts Central Health Council.

PUBLICATION: Textbook of Bacteriology and Its Applications.

REMARKS: The Biology Department has grown in size, scope of work, and ideals along with the rest of the College. The quantity, variety, and character of instruction offered has improved continuously, as is indicated in successive catalogues.

Our purpose is to be as useful as possible in contributing to the fundamental training in other programs; notably, household economics, social service, nursing and physical education. We are especially interested in developing scientifically trained persons for basic research, hospital and public-health laboratory technical positions, science teachers and other special lines of community and institutional services. That this has been well done is evidenced by the reputation we have gained as a department, and the wide-spread services which our graduates are rendering in leading institutions and laboratories of the country.

Department of Chemistry

KENNETH LAMARTINE MARK, Professor of Chemistry and Director of the School of General Science. A.B., Harvard, 1898; A.M., Harvard, 1900; Ph.D., Harvard, 1903.

FORMERLY: Assistant in Chemistry, Harvard University; Instructor in Chemistry, Simmons College, 1904–1906; Assistant Professor, Simmons College, 1906–1914; Associate Professor, Simmons College, 1914–1916.

SOCIETIES: Delta Upsilon; American Chemical Society.

PUBLICATIONS: Thermal Expansion of Gases; Salinity of Sea Water; Laboratory Exercises in Inorganic Chemistry.

REMARKS: In the past twenty-five years nearly six thousand different students have taken courses in chemistry in this department. Of these about one hundred and fifty are making direct use in their professions of the chemistry which they studied in College, and some two or three hundred more are doing work in which a knowledge of chemistry is of indirect professional value to them. What of the remaining five thousand five hundred? What value have they received in exchange for their countless hours of study? Who can tell? They themselves, probably, can answer no better than any one else. Yet the College firmly believes that something worthwhile has been gained,—a point of view, a better understanding of the applied science of the world of today, a more intelligent appreciation of life. Education, indeed, has been aptly defined as being what is left after all that was taught has been forgotten.

GORHAM WALLER HARRIS, Associate Professor of Chemistry. A.B., Harvard, 1907; A.M., Harvard, 1909; Ph.D., Harvard, 1915.

SARA HENRY STITES, Professor of Economics. A.B., Bryn Mawr College, 1899; A.M., 1900; Ph.D., 1904; Student in Economics, Geography and Ethnography at the Sorbonne and at the College de France, 1900–1901; University of Leipsic, 1901–1902.

FORMERLY: Co-principal of the Wilkes-Barre Institute, 1904–1912.

SOCIETIES: American Economic Association; American Association for Labor Legislation; Bryn Mawr Alumnae Association; Association of University Women; Massachusetts Council on Women and Children in Industry; Workers' Educational Bureau; and various social welfare organizations.

PUBLICATIONS: Economics of the Iroquois, 1904; One of the authors of Five Hundred Practical Questions in Economics, 1916.

REMARKS: The chief ambition of the Economics Department is to cultivate in its students a critical and creative understanding of the economic life in which they are to take an active part as consumers and producers. With such understanding comes greater power to further economic progress regarded not as an end in itself, but as a stepping stone to social welfare.

MORRIS FRIEDBERG, Instructor in Economics. A.B., Harvard, 1914; A.M., Harvard, 1924; Docteur de L'Université de Paris, 1925. Additional study at London School of Economics and University of Berlin.

HARRY DEXTER WHITE, Special Instructor in Economics. Ph.D.

Department of Education

ANTOINETTE ROOF, Associate Professor of Education. Courses at Teacher's College, 1914–1915.

FORMERLY: Instructor at Royal Normal College for the Blind, London, 1894–1897; Principal, School of Practice, Framingham State Normal School, 1906–1912; Instructor at Simmons College, 1912–1917; State Leader, Urban Extension Work, U. S. Department of Agriculture, 1917–1919.

SOCIETIES: American Economics Association; New England Home Economics Association; Boston Framingham Club; Boston Women's City Club; Women's Educational and Industrial Union; American Homemakers, Inc.

REMARKS: There are two distinct phases in the education course—one is a study of fundamental principles of teaching based on the psychology of learning—and a study of progressive methods now being used; the other phase of the work consists of practice teaching experience with classes in junior and senior high schools, and also in social settlements. This teaching experience is supplemented by periods of observation with teachers of experience.

AMY MARGARET FACKT, Assistant Professor of Vocational Practice. Illinois Woman's College, 1903; B.S., Simmons College, 1912; Columbia University.

FORMERLY: Teacher of Latin and German, High School, Mascoutah, Illinois; Instructor in Foods, Manager of the Tea Garden, Boulder, Colorado.

ROBERT MALCOLM GAY, Professor of English and Dean of the Graduate Division. A.B., Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, 1900; A.M., Columbia University, 1901; Litt.D., Dickinson College, 1912.

FORMERLY: 1901–1909, various positions in secondary schools; 1909–1918, Goucher College, Baltimore; 1911–1918, Extension Lecturer, Johns Hopkins University; 1912–1916, Johns Hopkins Summer Session; 1921–1922, Extension Lecturer Courses for Teachers, Boston University; 1905, Visiting Lecturer, Harvard University; Bread Loaf School of English, 1925–1927; Dean of Bread Loaf School, 1930; Director, Writers' Conference, 1930.

SOCIETIES: New England Association of Teachers of English; English Lunch Club of Boston.

PUBLICATIONS: Contributor to various magazines and reviews; and to Atlantic Classics, 2nd series, etc.; Writing Through Reading; Fact, Fancy, and Opinion; College Book of Verse; Emerson: A Study of the Poet as Seer; College Book of Prose.

REMARKS: One definition of an educated person is "a man or woman who knows a good thing when he sees it." Teachers of English are perhaps primarily engaged in the effort to help students to appreciate quality, —a good book or a fine person; and to discriminate between shoddy reading, writing, and speaking, on the one hand, and cultivated expression, judgment, and taste, on the other. In a vocational college, such appreciation and discrimination are important both as culture and as skill, for to speak well, write well and read well are the marks not only of a person liberally educated but of a person professionally equipped for life.

Department of History

HARRY MAXWELL VARRELL, Professor of History and Government. A.B., Bowdoin College, 1897; A.M., Harvard University, 1909; Ph.D., Harvard University, 1912.

FORMERLY: Instructor in University of New Mexico, 1897–1898; Instructor in University of Colorado, 1899–1901; Brooklyn Latin School, 1901–1902; Pueblo High School, 1904–1908; Austin Teaching Fellow, Harvard University, 1909–1912.

SOCIETIES: Delta Kappa Epsilon; Phi Beta Kappa; American Historical Association; New England History Teachers' Association, President, 1917; American Political Science Associations; Medieval Academy of America; American Academy of Political and Social Science.

REMARKS: From the opening of the College instruction in history has been provided. The staff of instructors has gradually increased from a single member in 1902 to six members at the present time. The first instruction was in the field of Modern European History. This, with Medieval History added, has been the main course of the Department. American History, first given in 1904, has been given each year since. In 1919 the present course in Government was first given and in 1927 the present course in Sociology. From time to time English History has been offered and also courses in Economic History and the History of Latin America. The number of students taking courses in the Department is about six hundred.

Department of Physical Training

Florence Sophronia Diall, Associate Professor of Physical Training. Graduate of Sargent Normal School of Physical Education; Woods Hole Marine Laboratory; De Pauw University.

Formerly: Physical Director, Y. W. C. A., Terre Haute, Indiana; Instructor, Vassar College.

Societies: American Physical Education Association; Kappa Alpha Theta.

Remarks: Youth desires a confession from her elders; she demands from them a clear stand. Based upon this stand she is willing and desirous of deciding for or against it.

Since genuine physical education is a matter which concerns the whole of mankind, as well as the moral woman of free will, it will always remain true that many will never be drawn into its circle. Always there will be those who prefer the humdrum life to a conscious realization or to an energetic tackling of the naturally inert self.

To awaken, to encourage a happy, primitive urge for achievement, contest; to provide competition as an apprenticeship; to open the gates of self-confinement through gymnastics, sports or dances; to lead to an understanding of the value of vigorous, unfailing health is the platform upon which stands the Department of Physical Training.

Verda Leach, Instructor in Physical Training. Graduate of Sargent School of Physical Education, 1923.

Department of Psychology

Harrison Leroy Harley, Professor of Psychology. B.S., University of Pennsylvania, 1911; Ph.D., Harvard University, 1921.

Formerly: Instructor in Psychology, Pennsylvania State College, 1914–1915; Teaching Assistant and Research Student, Psychological Laboratory, University of Pennsylvania, 1912–1924; State Psychologist, Lincoln State School and Colony, Illinois, 1915–1917; Chief Psychologist of Division of the Criminologist and the Institute for Juvenile Research, Illinois, 1917–1921; Assistant Professor of Psychology, Simmons College, 1921–1924; Lecturer at the Massachusetts General Hospital; Consulting Psychologist, Mooseheart, Illinois; Lecturer on Social Psychology, Bryn Mawr Summer School for Women Workers in Industry; Member Board of Control, Boston Trade Union College.

REMARKS: Psychology and Ethics have found a place in the curriculum of Simmons College since the beginning of instruction. Using senior subjects, a few years elapsed before the first seniors came into the first class. Since that time with emphasis first upon Ethics and later upon Psychology, the work has progressed uninterruptedly under teachers, many of whom were then fresh from the Harvard Laboratory of Psychology. The list will attest to the standard of merit maintained in the successive appointments: Mrs. Ethel Puffer Howes, Ph.D., 1904–1906; author, Psychology of Beauty, 1905; Arthur Stone Dewing, Ph.D., 1907–1914, Professor of Finance in Harvard University and author of numerous works on finance; Mrs. Frances Rousmaniere Dewing, Ph.D., 1913; Henry Thomas Moore, Ph.D., 1914–1915, President of Skidmore College; Harold Ernest Burtt, Ph.D., 1916–1919, Professor of Psychology, Ohio State University, and author of Principles of Employment Psychology, 1926; Robert C. Givler, Ph.D., 1918–1919, Professor of Psychology, Tufts College, and author of Psychology, 1922, and Ethics of Hercules, 1924; Abraham Aaron Roback, 1919–1921, author of Behaviorism and Psychology, 1923, and Psychology of Character, 1927.

REMARKS: Physics endeavors to discover and interpret the fundamental laws of the Universe, laws under which we must all live. In these laws we see a wise Guiding Hand; we come to the realization that there is "One God, one law, one element, and one far-off divine event, to which the whole creation moves." The true scientist is artisan and artist; poet and prophet.

"Science and Art, compeers in glory,
Boast each a haunt divine,
My place is in God's laboratory,
And in His garden mine."

Marion McCune Rice, R.N., Professor of Public Health Nursing and Director of the School of Public Health Nursing. A.B., Smith College, 1905; Diploma Pennsylvania Hospital Training School, 1910; B.S., Simmons College, 1921.

Formerly: Head Nurse, Episcopal Hospital, Philadelphia, 1910; Head Nurse, Pennsylvania Hospital, 1911–1913; Head Nurse, French War Hospitals, 1915–1919; Acting Director of Nursing and Field Work, Community Health Association, Boston, 1922–1923; and Associate in Division of Field Work, 1923–1925; Instructor, Simmons College, 1921–1923; Assistant Professor, 1923–1925; Associate Professor, 1925–1928; Professor, 1928–; Director, 1925.

Societies: American Public Health Association; American Nurses' Association; National League of Nursing Education; National Organization for Public Health Nursing.

Remarks: The public health nurse is one of the essential workers in any adequate programme for community health. She is the field agent upon whom depends to a large extent the successful carrying out of any plan for the promotion of health and the prevention of disease. In her work in the home, in the school, and in industry, she serves as a teacher of health to the individual, thus taking an active part in the education of the public, which leaders in the modern public health movement recognize as an activity of no less importance than the sanitation of the environment and the control of community infections.

KATHARINE DAVIS HARDWICK, Professor of Social Economy and Director of the School of Social Work. A.B., Boston University, 1907.

FORMERLY: District Secretary, Boston Associated Charities; Director of Field Service, American Red Cross, New England Division.

SOCIETIES: Phi Beta Kappa; American Association of Social Workers; President of Massachusetts State Conference of Social Work, 1928–1929.

REMARKS: Simmons College was the first to offer a four-year programme in social service leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science. As the profession evolved the School changed its methods but certain basic principles have always governed it;—specialized training on a foundation of general case work and community understanding; the balancing of theory and practice; training in public as well as private service; education in prevention; and above all the idea of service. The School believes that scholarly attitudes are not incompatible with simplicity and common sense and that the test of the professional social worker is his ability to give himself in intelligent, skillful, and disinterested service to others.

School of Landscape Architecture

ROBERT SWAN STURTEVANT, Professor of Landscape Architecture and Director of the School of Landscape Architecture. A.B., Harvard University, 1912; M.L.A., 1916.

FORMERLY: Instructor, Lowthorpe School of Landscape Architectute, 1919–1930; Visiting Instructor in Design and Planting Design, Cambridge School of Landscape Architecture, 1925–1930; Secretary, American Iris Society, 1920–1926; Editor, 1927–1930; Directot of Lowthorpe School of Landscape Architecture, 1928–1930.

REMARKS: For over two decades women have proved their ability as architects and landscape architects. To an extent, it is a luxury profession, and for the beginner, periods of business depression are very difficult. Aside from this, however, the profession permits part-time work from the home as an office, regular work in an established office, or a wholesome development of homes and their gardens.

Dependent upon the tendency of the individual, she may specialize in garden consultation, in garden lectures, or become an all-round practitioner, handling engineering, village improvement, or the complete development of private estates.

Although graduates of the Lowthorpe School which was established in 1901 have been successful even the work of the few graduates of the School at Simmons College is not without interest. One of the graduates is in charge of a Service Bureau for a garden magazine; one conducts a new garden center at Cleveland, Ohio; while others are working regularly in the profession in Massachusetts, New York, and North Carolina. With such a beginning we may well visualize a future of the School at Simmons College the first of the womens' colleges to offer a course in Landscape Architecture, that will be widely and well known throughout the country.

PORTER WRIGHT DORR, Special Instructor in Design.

FORMERLY: With Olmsted Brothets, Landscape Architects, 1908–1918; Instructor at Lowthorpe School 1924–1930.

FORMERLY: Practising Landscape Architecture in firm of Pattee and Peters.

Music

DAVID BLAIR MCCLOSKY, Director of the Glee Club.

REMARKS: Within the past five years, as director of the Glee Club, it has been my ambition to make of it an organization of young women who have a love for the best in music. This, I am assured, has been accomplished. It is the object of the Glee Club to gather from the college a group, not of trained voices, but of those people who like to sing. This year the club has been smaller than usual—a group of sixty members—but it has been a most enthusiastic crowd which has accomplished much. For next year, plans have been started for a concert which should be one of the high-lights in Boston music for the year. Therefore, it is my hope that the fall will show a large turnout of new members, both freshmen and upper classmen.

Margaret Abbott

"M. A.," "Mag," "Snoots," "Snootie," "Margot"

Mag acquired the name of "Snoots" once and it never left. Why, we can't remember for she is one of those friendly souls with an impish glint in her eyes that tells you she is not above a little mischief. She has always given her best to the college, and, as a consequence, has set an enviable mark therein.

When you are not feeling quite up to "par" or are a little bit down in the "dumps" just go and have a friendly chat with Marge and you will feel like a new person. Her true friendship has made us admire her and we know that Marge will be welcome in her future role as a Home Ec teacher.

Lillian Roberta Albert

With freedom from malice, we just have to mention Lillian's faculty for being late to class. This sweeping statement must be modified, though, because this last year at the School of Social Work, she has not to our knowledge, been late once! We admire her nonchalant manner of forwarding unusual ideas and disputable opinions as much as we admire the careless way that she appeared in class, late. This Lillian is a most interesting girl.

Priscilla Frances Alden "Peg"

A variety of the very nicest things are all clamoring to be said about Peg. All her friends can tell you how they love her for the good sport she is and admire her for the million-dollar way she wears her clothes. We predict long waiting lines in front of her Interior Decorating establishment as a natural result of her unblemished good taste.

Florence Jennie Aliber "Flo"

Flo has the unusual quality of being an exceptionally good listener to other peoples' interests—something which few of us do well. Her skill as a secretary seems assured, since she is the one to whom all the other "Secretarials" flock when accounts, shorthand, or what-have-you go wrong. And she always has time to help.

Elizabeth Allen "Betty"

Betty is one of those greatly over-driven secretarial people who manages to do enviable work herself and still have time to help others. Those of us who have had the opportunity of knowing Doris are indeed fortunate. Margaret's one of those quiet girls who doesn't distinguish herself by yelling the whole length of the corridor. Quiet, yes, but "still waters run deep." She made Academy too, which speaks for her serious-mindedness, as well as the fact that she was just naturally born bright. If Margaret doesn't make a name for herself in the Home Ec line we will be very much surprised.

Behind Pearl's shy glances and demure blushes (yes, even in this sophisticated day) peeks out the exhilarating fun that is part of her. If you ever need aid go to Dottie. She will help you out of any dilemma, from lending you her typewriter to finish your law notes, to getting you a last minute blind. And she does it in such a cheerful, happy way you would think she was the one getting the favor. Mary Lou has managed to give her work at Simmons variety for, although she graduates as a social worker, she started as a secretary and even attempted landscape architecture. The best of it is that she likes each school better than the last. When it was noised through "78" that a Porto Rican was amongst us, what speculations! Did she speak English well, was she a flashing-eyed brunette? And when we finally saw and knew her? First, a combination of creamy complexion and auburn hair; next, the ability to drop casually from English to Spanish and back again; then, a genius for making and cementing friendships. These are a few of her features which have aroused admiration and respect from those far off freshman days to these when graduation is upon us.

Betty is that "intriguing" little person with red hair who has been the bright spot in many a class; with her unique voice and questions. She has conducted committees in a most efficient, business-like way; she has a quiet appreciation of good books, and a love of high ideals; in the midst of her busy college life, she finds time to be interested in the Union and it may be seen that she has a good deal of that gift called feminine charm.

Mary Josephine Bourne "Bobby"

There's so much to be said about Bobby—but let's first inquire if her shares in Socony are still drawing interest! In the days of depression Bobby was an ardent exponent of all that was oily. We suggest that when she gets her coveted position, she eat mayonnaise before retiring, so that she may get up "oily" in the morning. Cheer up, Bobby, there are railroads to all parts of the U. S., and even steamships to Europe if necessary.

She's just five feet and a wee bit more
With big gray eyes and curls galore;
A twinkling smile and a friendly word
In the softest voice you ever heard.
That's an attractive picture you will admit,
And a certain young man believes the same,
So, though intentions are good for years of fame,
We are waiting to hear of her change of name.

Isabella Boltz Lyon

We heard that Students' House was to have a transfer senior hailing from the "Rock-bound coast of Maine." Heigh-ho, and what would she be like? Of the Turner Centre vintage or approaching the Bar Harbor type? Doubly right on the last guess, for she not only hails from that famed place, but enhances our pleasant ideas of it, which means—she's an asset to any college.

Helen Frances McAuliffe

At one time Helen almost convinced us that Home Ec students were inhumanly clever. Helen was always planning delicious dinners and buying heaps of clothing for the smallest amount of money imaginable. Then one day we discovered that these were all paper profits. Disillusioning, but some day we know these will be turned into real profits, for Helen isn't the sort to stop with paper.

Student Government Association

Every Simmons student is a member of Student Government Association. The Association elects twelve members to form Student Government Council, which meets weekly to consider student administrative routine. All members of the Association are encouraged to submit problems concerning activities of the various organizations and of the Association at large. Minutes of Council meetings are posted conspicuously on the Student Government Bulletin Board.

This year Student Government Council has made particular progress in the efficient organization of the Association files. There has, furthermore, been an attempt to adapt the customs and rules of tradition to present needs.

Dormitory Council

Dormitory Council is composed of the House Chairmen, the House Seniors, and the Vice-president of Student Government as chairman. It meets informally at irregular intervals as the need arises. This group is concerned with many practical problems occurring in one or another dormitory; quiet hours, laundry facilities, and conduct in general. Dormitory Council attempts to interpret the rules to the resident students and to encourage a feeling of respect for them.

The social side of dormitory life is another great interest of Council. It sponsors an inter-class party every year at which a costume is the cause, and getting acquainted the result. Candlelight Dinners, another social function initiated by a past Dormitory Council, have brought faculty and students together and furthered a spirit of informality between them. It is significant that the popularity of these is ever growing.

Mr. Turner A. Junkin Miss Jacobs Miss Diall Mr. Rankin

Student Government Conference Committee

Through the agency of Conference Committee the faculty has a means of aiding the students in their policies of self-government. The Committee is composed of the Dean, three members of the faculty, elected at large, and four members from Student Council.

All business transacted by Student Council, Dormitory Council and Judicial Board is reviewed and approved by the Committee before it becomes final. It is directly through Conference Committee that coöperation and understanding is maintained between the faculty and the students.

Judicial Board

Chairman . . . . . Doris Gilliatt
Secretary . . . . . Elizabeth Kerr

Judicial Board is the Judiciary body of Student Government. This body investigates and passes decisions on cases of violation of academic and dormitory rules, all offenders being given an opportunity to defend themselves. If a dormitory case, the recommendations of the Board are passed to the Conference Committee; if an academic case, to the Faculty Disciplinary Committee. The Board then awaits the final decision of these Committees.

Judicial Board exists, not only for disciplinary reasons, but to give advice if it is desired. It also tries to prove, by enlarging and maintaining the students' responsibility, that they are worthy of Student Government.

Through the weekly meeting of the Christian Science Organization, held in the Assembly Hall on Monday afternoons throughout the year, an opportunity is given to every one in the college to share the blessings and joy which Christian Science brings to us.

These meetings, and the lecture delivered annually by a member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, enable all to learn more of Christian Science and to express more love and friendship. Visits are made to the Christian Science Publishing House from time to time.

Ellen Richards Club

President . . . . . GRACE DUMOULIN
Secretary-Treasurer . . . . . DORRANCE CHASE

The founding of the Ellen Richards Club in 1920 was the result of a desire to stimulate an interest in science, and to promote good fellowship among the science students. Its membership is now open to juniors and seniors of the Science School, and sophomores are admitted during the last term of each year. Although the admission requirements make the organization small, it is steadily growing, and with its growth, the ideals and aims of the club are being realized more and more.

In addition to the annual fall picnic and the birthday party in the spring, open meetings, teas, and initiation are held during the year. This year two of the speakers at our open meetings were Dr. Smiley of Harvard, and Dr. Ralph Wheeler, Massachusetts state epidemiologist, who added much to our scientific knowledge.

Forum

Chairman, Genevieve Young

"The world is so full of a number of things—"

Forum brings to the students speakers who talk to them about a few of that "number of things"—politics or poetry, social problems or travel in far-away lands. It hopes that these glimpses may help the students to broaden their interests, and perhaps agree with Stevenson that ". . . we should all be as happy as kings."

Forum is grateful to the members of the faculty who have talked so interestingly to us this year, as well as to the speakers from outside.

Home Economics Club

President	Marion Crowther
Vice-President	Mabel Turner
Secretary	Elizabeth Bliss
Treasurer	Ruby Winslow
Chairman of Food Sales Committee	Catherine Leamy

The Simmons Home Economics Club aims to acquaint the undergraduates with the business world and the various vocations open in the Home Economics field. This is accomplished throughout the year by having speakers at the meetings who relate their varied and interesting experiences. There also are trips to visit companies of interest. The Club is affiliated with the Massachusetts, New England, and American Home Economics Associations, and each year a member of the junior class, belonging to this club, is sent to the annual National Home Economics Convention.

Juniors and seniors in the School of Household Economics automatically become members of the club. Money is raised for it by food sales in the dormitories and at Hall Table.

Thirty years ago the first Menorah Society was founded at Harvard University, and this year marks the fourteenth birthday of our Simmons Menorah Society. It has evidently proved a necessary and helpful organization, for since then similar societies have sprung up in colleges all over the country, and they have been very successful.

The aim of this society is the study and advancement of Jewish ideals and culture; to stimulate a deeper and keener interest in things Jewish through the programs which are conducted for the benefit of its members. Menorah also aims to develop closer friendship and loyalty among its members, and with this in mind it sponsors many purely social activities.

Treasurer . . . . . Alice Joyce

The Newman Club, a Catholic society, is one of the largest and most active clubs in the College. All Catholic students of Simmons are members of this organization. Newman Club is a member of the National Federation of College Catholic Clubs and is thus affiliated with all the college clubs throughout the country.

The purpose of the Club is to unite the Catholic students of Simmons in religious, educational, and social activities. Frequent business and social meetings adequately carry out this purpose. It is the aim of the members, assisted by the Club Chaplain and officers, to follow in the footsteps of their most worthy and noble patron, Cardinal Newman.

The Poetry Club began meeting weekly in an informal way last year. Membership is restricted to those who are interested in creating verse and experimenting with patterns both old and new. Mr. de Mille has given the Club a great deal of friendly assistance and encouragement.

Last year the Club had the honor of reading before the Boston Center of the Poetry Society of England, and again this year. Another high spot was the entertaining of the faculty at a tea. "Arrows", a slim, red volume of verse is its first publishing venture.

Since its organization two years ago, the Debating Society has advanced to the ranks of a College Debating Society. The worth of such a society to further the art of Forensic has been appreciated by the majority of students and instructors, judging by the large attendance at the informal, as well as formal, debates. The number of members has grown rapidly, and the excellent material in the club promises a bright future for debating at Simmons.

Simmons Musical Association is maintained for the benefit of students interested in Music. It not only fulfills this purpose, but also offers to the student the opportunity of friendship with girls with similar interests.

In keeping with its meritorious program of the past few years, two successful concerts have already been presented this year, at Jordan Hall and Trinity Church, and every one is looking forward to the joint concert with Brown University Glee Club, and to singing at Simmons Night at Pops.

The Instrumental Organizations, in the form of a quintet and jazz orchestra, have also proved themselves most progressive this year by appearing publicly at Faculty Dinners and college teas.

The Unity Club aims to bring together the girls of Simmons who have liberal religious views in order that they may become better acquainted through discussion and through social gatherings. This year our meetings have been held once a month, in the form of teas, with some especially interesting speakers as our guests. Our membership has been made up of Unitarians, Universalists, Congregationalists, Presbyterians, Baptists, Lutherans, and Episcopalians, so you see, denomination does not matter.

Simmons "Y" has aimed this year more than ever to have some activity of interest to each student. The usual Friday afternoon teas have been held at the Metropolitan Headquarters and have been varied by intercollegiate ones during Lent, and monthly ones, with special speakers, in the Lounge. Annual affairs were the Freshman picnic, the houseparties (this year at Cedar Hill and Woburn), "Y" conferences at Maqua, the intercollegiate conferences at Cedar Hill and Poland Springs, and the Faculty-Student baseball game. In the endeavor to carry out the aim in a fuller manner many activities have been sponsored, among them a special industrial group, aided by Mr. Freidberg; museum trips; religious discussion groups in the dormitories; and, for lighter diversion, theatre parties.

"Y" has also been trying to make a full and creative life possible for others through Social Service Work in local agencies and a growing interest in our sister college, St. Christophers, in Madras, India.

Treasurer	Louise Conway
Chairman of Activities	Eleanor Ricker
Stage Manager	Madolon Hallock

As is usual, the old "stand-bys" have nobly supported Dramatics this year, but we have had a wealth of new material which gives encouragement for greater growth in the years to come. We have been especially fortunate, too, in being able to stage our productions at Whitney Hall this year, thanks to the financial aid given by President Lefavour and members of the Corporation.

Attendance at the plays has been better than ever before, and Dramatics is on a firm financial basis now. The plays have been exceptionally well staged, which is due in large part, to the improved facilities.

The junior class won the prize in the competitive plays in March. There were so many who did a fine piece of acting that the judges preferred not to award individual acting honors to anyone.

The year 1930–1931 has brought several changes in the Simmons News. One is that the paper is no longer subscribed to individually, but is distributed free to all students and faculty members.

The other change is the coming of Per-Simmons, the literary supplement which contains writings gathered from various students and which corresponds to the undergraduate work formerly found in the Review.

We feel that the News has grown up a great deal since it made its first timid, mimeographed bow to the world in the fall of 1923, and yet the changes just made prove that there is a great deal of opportunity for further growth and expansion. Our ideal is that the News shall truly reflect the spirit that belongs to Simmons.

With the idea of expanding the publicity of Simmons, Press Board has increased its membership this year. Underclassmen have been taken on as assistants to train them to take up the work as the upper classmen leave it. Several home-town papers have taken Simmons Correspondents, and the writing of news for these smaller papers also helps to prepare the reporters for larger Boston papers.

A great increase in coöperation from the faculty has been felt this year, probably because of the influence brought to Press Board by Mr. Watkins, who, in the middle of the year, became publicity director for the college.

Student Government has again financed clipping service, and Press Board Bulletin Board, with its many clippings, is a popular gathering place in the front corridor. Beside this, there is a scrap book, which is being kept in the Editors' Room, containing the clippings of the Boston papers which the Clipping Service so often overlooks.

Microcosm

After the fashion of Briggs, who was always wondering about the thought habits of weird and wonderful creatures, we wondered what occupied the minds of the members of that strange group—Mic Board. Here's what they told us:

A—The Artist, who insists that she thinks of angles and curves, even in sleep.

B—The Business Manager, who mumbles that strange word "debit" over and over and over again.

C—The Circulation Manager, who swears she is dizzy from hearing, "I forgot to order 'Mic', is it too late now?"

D—The Diligent Advertising Manager, who thinks only of her wornout knees—in that condition from praying that people will advertise.

E—The Editor, who screeches as you appear—you see, she's afraid you'll ask "How's 'Mic' coming along?"

F—The Frantic Photograph Editor, who howls and foams at the mouth after long hours of pleading "Please give me some pictures for 'Mic.'"

G—The gigantic chorus which issued from their throats when they insisted that their traditional dive into Muddy River would take place in May, as in previous years.

Athletics is one of the binding forces in our college life. It unites the girls in a spirit of fun, and makes for lasting friendships, formed on the hockey field, the basketball or tennis courts, in the swimming pool, fencing tournaments or archery contests. This year our wonderful new field added much to the success of hockey. The class of 1934 was the winner of the class cup, and Helen Crawley won the individual cup. This was followed by a successful basketball season which was brought to a close with the class of 1933 holding the cup. Eleanor Wight was the winner of the individual cup. For the third year, Dorrance Chase won the tennis singles. The entire season was brought to a successful close with track.

This year the college managers of sports have been:

The Simmons Life Saving Corps was entered as a new form of athletics in 1923. For seven years the course was held at the Big Tree Pool, Cambridge, but since the pool of tradition is no longer in use, the course has been given for the past two years in the new Y. W. C. A. pool in Boston. The pool is a great improvement, and the course has proved as popular in the new pool as in the old. Two courses are offered, under the direction of Captain Jack Wallace; one for those who wish to become Senior Life Savers, and one for those who are already Senior Life Savers, and wish to become Examiners, and teach Life Saving at summer camps.

The Weddings of 1931

This custom has developed from a mock ceremony of comic character to a really beautiful and solemn pledging of friendship. Along in November, '31, as freshmen, received those real "society" formal invitations, and a real society event the wedding proved to be, with a full procession, and the bridesmaids in the lovely period evening gowns of the day. And again in November of 1929, we escorted the sweetest class in history to the altar. Many distinguished guests were present—John Coolidge and his wife, Amelia Earhart, and a well-known member of the faculty being among them.

Freshman Frolic

Way back in 1905, the Class of 1908 dressed up in "kid clothes" and had a party at which they played games of their childhood. This party was referred to in the class history as the Frolic, and as such it has been passed down to the present day. Of late years it has taken place in the college "backyard" instead of on campus, but the essential features of lollipops, ice cream cones, tag, hide-and-go-seek, frilly dresses, pigtails and even overalls and pantaloons have remained the same.

Track Day

This is the culmination of the athletic year. For many years it has been characterized by interclass competition for the best song and costume of the day, as well as by the track and field events. In fact, competition is the order of the day—remember the hot-dog eating contests? And the year '31 won the costume prize—all in blue and white with the good old owl leading on?

Sophomore May Day

The charming, if rather chilly custom, has come down to us from almost prehistoric times. As far back as 1914 the sophomores sang songs to their sister class at 6 A.M., following the serenade by the crowning of the President of the Senior Class Queen of the May, and by a dance around the Maypole. Then came breakfast—with strawberry shortcake—served on the lawn. '31 varied the performance with a play to amuse King and Queen Marion, in which the three bears and a sleeping beauty were prominent.

Sophomore Luncheon

This is the day when '31 came of age, with the much talked-of rings 'n' everything —even to white owls sitting on blueberry ice cream rocks. Luncheon is another of our hoary customs, having been established by 1911. The rings were not associated with it until about 1920, but always the luncheon has meant the consolidation of the class and the creation of a real class spirit.

Freshman-Junior Picnic

Rain and fresh paint, and a half-opened Nantasket—nothing could dampen our spirits that far off day in May. Wet beach, wet feet and wet skies, but still the thrill of the roller-coaster and the dizzy delights of the merry-go-round charmed us. With our big sisters we romped the day away, and when our junior year came we renewed our acquaintance with Nantasket under sunnier skies.

Junior Prom

From a dance in the banner- and pillow-decorated refectory back in 1907, Junior Promenade has held its own, and waxed mightily, through the lean war years of "expenseless" proms, to the dinner and dance from 7–1 at the Somerset, with seniors serenading in cap and gown. It will be many years before '31 forgets how grand (and inwardly how thrilled) it felt with its new long gowns and gloves and the flowers that "he" sent, to say nothing of the house party at the beach afterwards.

Senior Housewarming

Who would have dreamed that such wrecks—such wholly undesirable characters—could ever have been produced by our class? Rag, tag, and bobtail! Who ever heard of Senior dignity? Certainly none of these hoboes who revelled in North Hall basement, having one last wild fling before dull Senior-hood had settled down in irrevocable solemnity.

The Old English Dinner

The officers of Student Government are transformed in a twinkling into my lord and lady, with their high-born guests, and our work-a-day refectory into a manorial hall, fragrant with evergreen and dim and shadowy with candlelight. Formal dress, no forks, the blazing boar's head, "St. George and the Dragon", waits and tumbling jesters, all go to make this dinner a picturesque and memorable occasion.

Dear Diary
MICROCHAOS

And Now

With charity towards all and malice towards none (no, the phrase is not original) we present—THE FAMILY, as seen by our photographers and artists, in more intimate settings than have hitherto been divulged.

The Heads of the House

Just a few proofs that Darwin was right.

The Big Sisters

JEMIMAH GOTTROCKS

Here's to you Jermie—We're sure going to miss you next year!!! What a disposition—and, oh, for that sense of humor!!! Good old Jermie—we expect great things of you with your winning smile and quiet dignity; your genius for capable management and high attainment. Good luck, Jermie!!! We wish we'd seen more of you!

BESSIE LOVEJOY

Oh, for those eyes, and that hair! And always rushing thither and yon to Dartmouth or Princeton. How the telephone rings and telegraph boys swarm around her dorm!!! That bubbling smile, the flashing whimsicalities—perhaps they account for those fourteen letters one day—eh, Bessie? Some lucky man will have her for his secretary soon, for she would be an asset to any office, but we bet it won't be for long—not if Eli Yale has anything to say about it. Good luck Bessie! We wish we'd seen more of you!

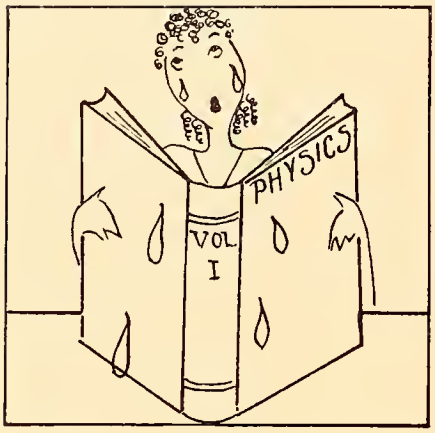
And there you have the story, as told in two short parts, of why year-book staffs have to be forcibly restrained from ending it all in Muddy River.

The Kid Sisters



Ah! Cruel, cruel world, why was I ever born!

What happened to those same little mourners.

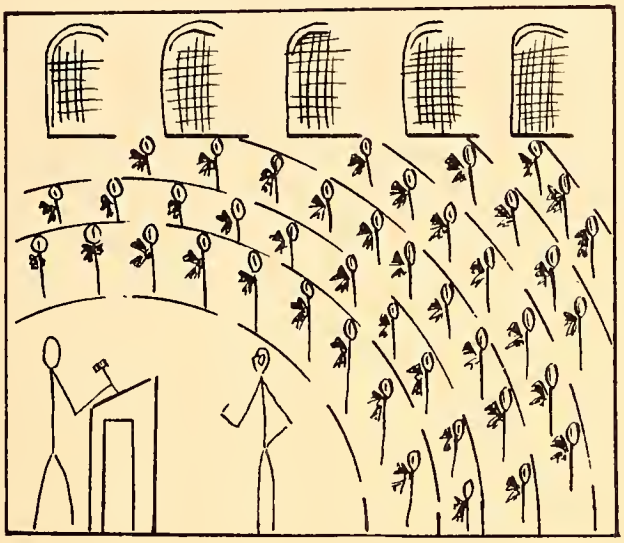
And here—

One selected specimen, who has reached the third year.

She says that puss is christened Eve—for she'll soon be down to fundamentals!

MICROCOSM

SH-H-H ! !



Our artist climbed through the windows and sketched this little scene for us. It's a Student Government meeting.

Hush! What are they doing?

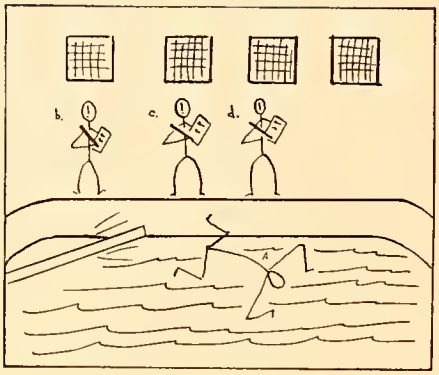
Sh-h-h! Hortense Whoosiz, earnest signer of, and firm believer in, honor votes, has just exploded a bombshell. She claims a certain junior guilty of (1) comparing accounts papers, (2) using an electric iron in the dormitories, (3) breaking the smoking rule.

Hush—what's this?

Eloise Noblehart (the one with the rosette) moves that these statements be struck out of the record as preposterous and untrue.

Heigh-ho! Dumb but happy.

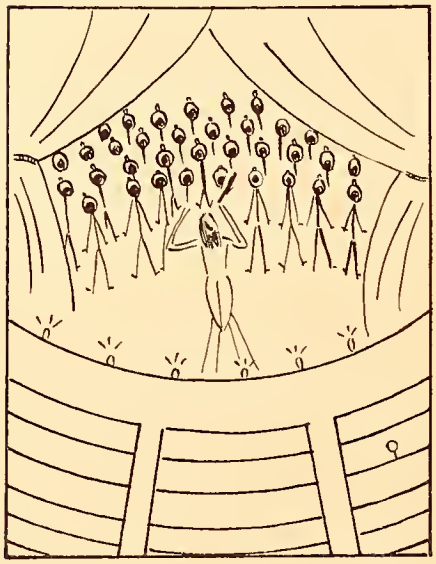
What's This



THIS IS THE LIFE SAVING CORPS IN ACTION

From our point of vantage we see the second mate of the corps (exhibit A) and a zealous class being quizzed on the fine points of diving technique. Exhibit B, on the left, is going to write that the hands are out of line; Exhibit C, center, is afraid something is wrong with the leg position; Exhibit D (Simmons Ellen Richards and Academy) bets that everything is okey.

Upon payment of $2.00, each, they will all receive badges and achieve the position of councilors at Camp Winnie-de-Poo this summer.



AND THIS

is just a hurried view of one of our most successful Glee Club Concerts. The artist sketched the eager throngs as they battled their way to their places.

Just an old Spanish Custom popular among our undergraduates.

Fashion Hour with the Athletes

In an exclusive interview with these famous exponents of physical fitness for females, we were shown some of the newer models which will prevail this spring in the haute monde. The personable young Amazons, although extremely shy and reluctant, consented to pose for the press. Here we present one of their more informal poses.

Around the Corner

OUR shop at 133 Brookline Ave. is only a short walk from Simmons. It is a convenient place to obtain foods for spreads, teas or in-between bites; and here also one finds a splendid selection of candies and toilet articles.

FOOD—sandwich spreads, foods for the chafing dish, crackers, bread, butter, fruit, confections, tea, coffee—in as small a quantity as you want.

CANDY—the very best in delicious chocolates and other candies.

TOILET ARTICLES—the most extensive assortment of perfumes and other toilet articles in New England.

Parents will be interested in our Student Gift Boxes. Descriptive list sent on request.
